RIFLES ASSOCIATION CELEBRATES AN EVENT

Holds a Banquet at Freund's, at Which Interesting Toasts Are Given—"Lights Out" for Their Dead Comrades.

More than sixty-five members of the National Rifles Association last night attended a banquet at Freund's in honor of the thirty-first anniversary of the reorganization of the society.

In the ranks of this company at various periods of its existence have been enrolled young soldiers who have since attained prominence in social, commercial, professional, and governmental affairs in the United States and foreign countries. Regrets were read by Lieut. George W. Evans, toastmaster, from absent members, who sent their best wishes for the continued welfare and prosperity of their former comrades in arms.

At the sound of the dinner call at 8:30 o'clock, the veterans formed in double-rank column and marched to the banquet table. While standing the signal for "lights out" was given, and the hall was shrouded in darkness. Taps was sounded, followed by the roll of a muffled drum, succeeding which the toastmaster announced the National Rifles' tribute to the memory of the dead. The lights were then flashed on, and the command was given to be seated and partake of the company mess, as prepared by the commissary.

Toasts were responded to as follows: "Sayings of the toastmaster, the health and happiness of the President of the United States," Lieut. George W. Evans: "In memory of our comrades, camped in eternal glory," in silence; "Salutation, the commander," Lieut. George W. Oyster: "The feast of reason and the flow of soul—may we long enjoy," Edward P. Harrington: "The National Rifles in the civil war, 1861," Lieut. George W. Oyster: "Patriotism and love of country," Lieut. George W. Oyster: "Recollections of our military days," Henry K. Simpson: "The bivouac of our dead," Edward P. Harrington: "The National Rifles in the Spanish-American war," Col. Glendie B. Young: "Our annual assembly—the tie that binds," J. Henry Small, Jr.: "There were hot times in the old town," Willis B. Magruder: "Civil war—the palladium of our nation," Jackson H. Ralston: "To those who love our sweethearts and wives," Capt. John B. Randolph: "In memory of our departed comrades," in silence.

The invited guests included Capt. Joseph C. Clayton, of New York; Charles T. Lowell, Bryan H. Morse, William P. Vale, Alex. Abraham, Edwin P. Goodwin, Fred C. Crasoe, and Edward L. Dunn. The officers of the association are Capt. James P. Oyster, president; Lieut. George W. Evans, secretary-treasurer; Thomas F. Holden, George N. Acker, Charles Atkinson, Edward E. Bailey, Frank M. ## ARISTOCRATIC CATS SOLD AT LAWN FETE

Washington Club Plans New Home for Felines.

A lawn fete for the benefit of the Washington Cat Club was held last night at 1883 Third street northwest. A large number of patrons were present, and the benefit proved a success. There was a sale of Persian cats and kittens with long pedigrees.

The fete was given to raise funds to carry on humane work among cats of the city. It is also the intention of the club to establish a new home for stray cats, as the present quarters are inadequate. The convenience of such a home would be greatly appreciated by the large number of persons who leave the city in the summer, and who usually have a difficult problem as to what disposition to make of the house cat.

The club is making plans along the

MORAN RETURNS TO CITY WITH BOY AND WIFE'S BODY

Recites Story of Journey Across the Country from St. Louis—Pathetic Picture, with Parallel in Poem.

To a little brick house in Southeast Washington, set in an old garden, where the roses are running riot, has come little Raymond Moran, twelve years old, the son of Mrs. Arthur Moran, who was shot and killed in St. Louis on June 2.

Brought from St. Louis by his father the day after the tragedy, he arrived in the city at his father's home, at Thirteenth street southeast. It was a hard journey for him, for while he sat curled up in the seat on the thundering express train, gazing at the landscape, he says it was hard not to think of his dead mother riding so quietly in the baggage car ahead. Raymond's father says that more than once on the long trip the boy slipped down on the seat and cried himself to sleep.

From the doorstep, around which cluster a half dozen varieties of old-fashioned flowers, can be seen in the distance the rolling green hills on the other side of the Eastern Branch and Potomac River, with a few fishing skiffs, and now and then a white sail. It was there the boy was sitting when a reporter for The Washington Herald arrived at the house. Neither his father nor his uncle was home from work, for the afternoon was but half past, and he was too tired to play host.

When asked to tell the story of how Albert Shule shot his mother in St. Louis and fired two bullets at him, he shrank into the doorway and shook his head.

"I'd rather not," said he. "It was too awful. I want to forget it as soon as I can. I was sleepy at first, and after that I was too scared to remember. I asked the man not to shoot, but he did."

The body of Mrs. Moran, which had been taken in charge by her relatives upon its arrival in Washington, was buried in Rock Creek Cemetery yesterday afternoon. Raymond's uncle says the boy was asked if he wanted to go to the cemetery. He refused, saying: "I had enough out there."

Raymond will remain with his father and uncle at the home in Thirteenth street, and every possible effort will be done to help him forget his bereavement.

MEDALS AWARDED UNDERGRADUATES

Georgetown Students Hear Brief Addresses.

Commencement exercises for the undergraduates of Georgetown College were held yesterday morning in the Hirst Library, where the medals were awarded. Brief addresses were made by Rev. John J. Quirk, S. J., and Rev. John D. Creighton, S. J. The exercises closed with the awarding of prizes to the following:

Junior class—John D. Foley, North Carolina; Francis H. Burke, Massachusetts; and James K. Lynch, Ohio.

Sophomore class—Francis J. Leary, District of Columbia; William J. Donnelly, New York; David Waldron, Pennsylvania; and Leo M. Graham, Pennsylvania.

Freshman—(a) William H. Prendergast, Rhode Island; Bernard S. Brady, Ohio; and Donald Chisholm, District of Columbia.

SISTER AGNES NOT TO STAND TRIAL

May Be Permitted to Forfeit
Collateral.

That Sister Agnes, superintendent of St. Ann's infant asylum, will never appear in the Police Court to answer to the charge of neglect in not isolating measles patients during an epidemic at the institution, is the opinion of attorneys at the Police Court and of doctors in the health department.

Charged with failure to report the measles cases to the health department, Dr. Murray A. Russell, attending physician at the asylum, pleaded not guilty in the Police Court yesterday and demanded a jury trial.

Counsel for Dr. Russell and Sister Agnes, the firm of Hamilton, Colbert, Terkes & Hamilton, were represented by Mr. Colbert. He asked Assistant Corporation Counsel Gus A. Schmidt to allow Sister Agnes to forfeit collateral, saying a forced appearance in court would prejudice the case.

Dr. Russell and Sister Agnes are at present under personal bonds to appear in court. Physicians of the health department, according to a report, will bring separate charges against Dr. Russell if he is discharged by a jury. In all, they claim, he failed to report about twenty cases of measles, and the reports were not sent to the health officer until four of the children at St. Ann's had died.

JUDGE IN EQUITY TO GIVE DECISION

Sons Oppose Mother's Plea for Receiver.

The petition of Mrs. Hutchins for appointment of a receiver of the estate of her husband, William Hutchins, was referred by Chief Justice Clark yesterday to the equity branch of the District Supreme Court.

Walter Stilson and Lee Hutchins, sons of the multimillionaire, and William J. Dante, trustee of the estate, opposed the application of Mrs. Hutchins for a receiver, and they also denied the jurisdiction of the chief justice in the receiver's application.

Attorney Gittings, representing Mrs. Hutchins, declared the appointment of a receiver imperative, charging Dante with refusing to pay necessary bills. The statements of three alienists were read to the court to the effect that Hutchins is ignorant of time, place, and surroundings. Dr. J. Sterling Ruffin denied Mr. Hutchins is suffering from senile dementia.

ELECTRIC TRUCK HANGS UP RECORD

Runs to Baltimore and Back on Single Charge.

Bruce Emerson yesterday drove a Detroit Electric one-ton truck with a load of 1,200 pounds in addition to the weight of two men to Baltimore and return, a distance of seventy-nine miles, on one charge in eight hours and ten minutes. The start was made from in front of the Emerson & Ormes showroom, Fourteenth and H street, at 8 o'clock yesterday morning. Shortly before noon the car checked in at Baltimore and Howard street, Baltimore. On the return the amperes hour meter showed the machine could have been driven several more miles before the charge was out.

Although this is not the first time an electric has been driven from the city to Baltimore and return on one charge, it is the first time the trip has been attempted by an electric truck. The runs were found in good shape and during the greater portion of the way the car was driven at its maximum rate of speed, twelve miles an hour. In coasting down hill at times it attained a speed of thirty-five miles an hour.

From the time that Mr. Emerson left here until he arrived back in the city, shortly before 6 o'clock, he did not experience the slightest trouble.

The automobile editors of the four newspapers against Secretary Fisher of the Interior Department and compel him to show cause why the application of the petitioner to the lands should not be granted.

McKenzie alleges he made application under the homestead law to enter 120 acres of public lands at Duluth, Minn., and that the application was made by him as assignee of George A. Godmark, who was a soldier in the war and the reclamation company of the Seventh Michigan Volunteer Cavalry, and was honorably discharged November 21, 1885.

Petitioner claims that the Commissioner of the General Land Office on January 12 last refused to allow petitioner to enter the lands.

Justice Anderson issued an order for Secretary Fisher to make appearance October 2 next to answer the charge.

SECRETARY FISHER CITED.

Two More Business Men Join the Baying Syndicate.

Two more business men yesterday joined the syndicate to purchase the Mount Pleasant playground at Fourteenth street and Columbia road and preserve it until a bill can be enacted to make it a permanent playground and park. The new members of the syndicate are J. Henry Small, Jr., and Hugh Ralley.

Senator Gallinger was given a copy of the bill for the purchase of the property yesterday by Fred G. Golden and A. C. Moses, and said he would introduce it next Tuesday. He told the representatives of the Playground Association that the formation of a syndicate to purchase the ground immediately and hold it until Congress should act upon the bill is a commendable enterprise.

MAKING ATTEMPT TO CLEAR MILLER

tice Wright.

The trial of John Barton Miller, former secretary-treasurer of the First Co-operative Building Association, of Georgetown, on the charge of alleged embezzlement and destruction of books, was resumed yesterday, John Tickell, a juror, who brought the proceedings to a halt on Thursday by his absence, having given a satisfactory explanation to Justice Wright.

Attorney Henry E. Davis said he would try to prove Miller guilty of embezzlement by showing he was a stockholder and therefore a partner of others financially interested. He said he would contend that a partner could not be guilty of embezzlement from another partner. The Court of Appeals having held that embezzlement is possible between partners, Justice Wright excluded this line of testimony.

Dr. George W. Wood testified that he attended Miller from June 2, 1908, until August 21, 1908, and that the defendant was seriously ill.

Miss Martha Krumke testified as to her stenographic notes of the stockholders' meeting on June 25. She said Miller stated at that meeting that "receivers received, but rarely disburse," referring to his objection to the appointment of a receiver for the association. "Receivers tramped up charges, and court costs will eat up your dollars," he is also alleged to have said.

A set of Miss Krumke's shorthand ability was required in a demonstration in open court by District Attorney Wilson. The case will be continued Monday morning.
